THE WEEK IN CHICAGO.

Special Dispatch to THE BEE.

CHICAGO, November 16.—The leading grain markets have been rather sluggish during the past week. A number of causes, among others the recent business failures here and elsewhere, the steady increase of the grain supply and the inactivity of foreign markets, have combined to produce this effect. There are still a vast majority of country traders and speculators in the east who believe wheat cheap at the present figures. It is noticeable that stover symptom of firmness, they send in their orders to buy. Local traders are evenly divided in opinion as to whether the future of wheat.

From the best sources it cannot be learned that any of them are either long or short, and all appear to be contented to await a better demand, and the news of a decrease in the thirty odd millions of wheat in store, before adopting such methods as are generally operated to make the markets active. Corn has been rather more firm than wheat, and the bulk of speculation is attracted to it. Receipts continue very few, the present favorable weather being to blame for the average of 400 carloads received daily. Much of

THE NEW CORN coming in grades low. There are rumors of a deal in December option, but beyond the fact that there is a heavy long interest in this option, there is no foundation for the report. Heavy takers talk 65 cents for May corn, and predict the advance will be well under way before Christmas. Provisions were due.

THE RECEIPTS OF HOGS are enormous, and packers, it is said, are endeavoring to depress prices, but in reality they believe in the bull side. How products ranged within narrow limits, and attracted only a moderate attention. The jobbing trade is somewhat unsettled. Failures in the hide and dry goods business have had a bad effect on those lines, especially the former. There is a greater amount of vigilance exercised by the banks than for some time. Your correspondent was informed by a leading financier that several

THE HEAVY FAILURES might be forced for within sixty days. The woolen trades depressed, mills are shutting down all over the country, the retail trade is dull, grocerie fair active, notions, millinery and trade reports a good holiday business. Elements of currency to the country are high.
